X

This letter has been lately dismissed from the Polish alphabet, and its place taken by KS, but it is still generally retained in the middle of some few words derived from the Latin tongue such as: Examin, Expens, Erekucya, Extrakt, etc. As an abridgment X., stands for Książę, prince, duke; Ksiądz, priest, clergyman, before proper nduns: X. Sapieha, prince Sapieha. X. Kopczyński, the Reverend Kopczyński.

Y

There is no Polish word beginning by this letter. Formerly the conjunction i, and, was written y: Ja y wy, you and I.

Z Z Z

Z, and for the sake of euphony ZE, prep. which governs the genitive case. It denotes:

1. The matter of which any thing is made: o: Korona ze złota, a crown of gold. Kapelusz ze słomy, a hat of straw. Stół z marmuru, a table of marble. Most z kamienia, a bridge of stone. Drzwi z drzewa, a door of wood. In such phrases, the substantives which mark the matter, are generally changed into an adjective: Korona złota, a golden crown. Kapelusz słomiany, a straw-hat. Stół marmurowy, a marble-table. Most kamienny, a stone-bridge. Drzwi drewniane, a wooden door; unless there be a verb which marks expressly that a thing was made of any matter: Pudełko było zrobione z mahoniu, the box was made of mahogany. Wóz był cały z cedru, the chariot was all of cedar. Chleb robi się ze zboża, bread is made of corn. Oba posaggi zrobione były z jednego kamienia, the two statues were cut out of a single block. Fig. Zrobił ze swego syna adwokata, he has made an advocate of his son, he has made his son an advocate. Zrobię z niego krawca, I shall make a tailor of him, I shall make him a tailor. Z potrzeby cnotę zrobić, to make a virtue of necessity. To this class belong the following idiomatic locutions, in which the verb BYĆ is left out: Z diarski z niego chłopiec, he is a smart, brisk boy. Mąż z niego poważny, rozsądny, he is a grave, sensible man. Jaki też to z twego brata prosiak! what a rude, churlish fellow your brother is!

2. § I. ALFABET.

Alfabet angielski ma dwadzieścia trzy litery :

Wymawianie samogłosek jest jedną z największych trudności języka angielskiego. Oto tablica ogólna w której brzmienia pojedynczych samogłosek, oznaczone są liczbami, podług systematu przyjętego przez Walkera, a z którą trzeba się dobrze obeznać, wprzód nim przystąpimy do rozwinięcia szczegółowych prawideł i wyjątków :

I. ā długie, jak ē francuzkie w wyrazie épée : fā'mity (*), pā'per, fāre, māre.

II. ā pośrednie, jak a polskie : fār, fāther, papā, mammā.
